The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-4, 11 and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Nishioka et al.

The language of the like rejection of the first Office action is hereby incorporated herein by reference. In regard to the amendment made to claim 1 and the related arguments regarding claims 1 and 14, the input current of the applicant is converted to a voltage by resistor R1 (figs. 4-5) or resistor R (figs. 6-7) before it is fed to the input stage. Indeed, the preamble of claim 14 reads " A voltage to current converter, comprising: ". The signals IO and IA of Nishioka et al. (fig. 2) which are the collector currents of transistors Q5 and Q4 respectively have been read as the first and second output signals; the 'second' signal, IA, is fed back to the input stage as claimed, and may be read as an 'output' signal in the same sense as the signal from the collector of applicants' transistor Q5 which is fed back to the input stage in applicants' figs. 5 and 7 for instance. Regarding claim 2, these arguments are not fully understood; the Examiner interprets the claim language to mean that the control terminals of the applicants input pair Q1,Q2 are coupled to receive the input signal, not coupled to each other. The bases of Q6,Q7 of Nishioka et al. are coupled to the input signal in the same fashion in that a single ended input is supplied to one differential terminal while the other receives a reference voltage just as in the applicant's fig. 5 for instance. Further, in both Nishioka et al. and the applicants' circuit the collectors of the input pair transistors are each coupled to the current mirror read as the gain stage. The collectors of both Q6 and Q7 of Nishioka et al., read on the second terminals claimed, are connected to the mirror.

Claims 5-9, 12-13 and 15 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Claim 10 is allowed for reasons already of record.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
